By the end of this workshop it is hoped participants will be able to:

- describe history and epidemiology of HIV in the countries where they are planning to work or travel
- list and recognise basic features of the natural history of HIV infection
- describe the impact of HIV prevalence on development in a particular country
- recall key stakeholders in HIV and strategies in prevention, diagnosis, management and treatment of HIV
- protect themselves and others from HIV infection
- list avenues for further assistance once in-country and for continual professional development

The Workshop on HIV & Overseas Work has been developed in collaboration with ACFID, ASHM, AVI, Burnet Institute, Griffith University, JTAI, MSF, MSIA, NAPWA, Oxfam Australia, Red Cross, The University of Queensland School of Medicine and World Vision. It presents snapshot coverage of contemporary issues in HIV and assumes no prior knowledge in this area. A key component of the day is the provision of resources and contacts to source further information.

The development of this workshop is in response to the number of participants attending education activities in HIV to upskill in this area prior to their departure for work overseas. It is planned that the workshop will be staged twice a year
